

Lección número 1	Lesson 1
Lo que será, será...	What will be, will be...
¡Hola! Pareces muy contenta. ¿Qué pasó?	Hi! You seem very happy. What happened?
No pasó nada. Es solo que fui a consultar a una adivina.	Nothing happened. It is just that I went to consult a fortune teller.
Nunca pensé que tú creías en esas cosas.	I never thought you believed in those things.
Yo tampoco. La verdad es que siempre me reía cuando me hablaban de brujos, hechiceras y adivinos.	Me neither. The truth is that I always laughed when people spoke to me about wizards, witches and fortune tellers.
Pero a pesar de ello, fuiste a consultar a una adivina.	But in spite of that, you went to consult a fortune teller.
No exactamente. Acompañé a una amiga, y ya que estaba allí...	Not exactly. I accompanied a friend, and since I was already there...
¿Qué te dijo?	What did she tell you?
Solo cosas buenas. Dijo que un hombre muy guapo se enamorará de mí,	Only good things. She said that a handsome guy will fall in love with me, que tendrá un gran éxito en mi trabajo y que heredará una fortuna.	that I'll have a big success in my job and that I will inherit a fortune.
Oh, ¿Y te dijo cuándo pasará todo eso?	Oh, and did she say when all that will happen?
No, no lo dijo, pero creo que ella estaba hablando de un futuro no demasiado lejano.	No, she didn't say it, but I think she was talking about a not too distant future.
Bueno, entonces solo tienes que esperar.	Well, so you just have to wait.
Lo que será, será...	What will be, will be...
Vocabulario	Vocabulary

El futuro “sintético”	The “synthetic” future tense
	In Part 1, Lesson 18, we saw that the verb ir (to go) is also an important component of the pattern [ir + a + any verb]. We use this pattern to communicate what we are going to do. In other words, to build sentences in the future tense.
	Spanish has another way of expressing what we are going to do or what is going to happen. Only one word is needed to do that and it is very simple to build it.
	In most verbs (as you can guess, there are some exceptions...), we simply take the basic form, what is called the infinitive (like trabajar, comer, abrir) and add the following endings according to the different persons:
	yo will have the verb ending in -é tú will have the verb ending in -ás él / ella will have the verb ending in -á nosotros / nosotras will have the verb ending in -emos vosotros / vosotras will have the verb ending in -éis ustedes / ellos / ellas will have the verb ending in -án
Veamos unos ejemplos	Let us see some examples
Parece que buscará un empleo.	It seems he/she will look for a job.
	In the previous sentence, we just added the 3rd person ending (-á) to the verb buscar .
El año que viene trabajará con mi padre.	Next year I will work with my father.
Mañana iremos al cine.	Tomorrow we will go to the movies.
Los niños volverán tarde.	The children will come back late.
La adivina dijo que vivirás muchos años.	The fortune teller said that you will live many years.
¿Cenarás conmigo el viernes?	Will you dine with me on Friday?
Si no buscas, no encontrarás nada.	If you don't search, you won't find anything.
El lunes empezarán a aprender español.	Monday they will start to learn Spanish.
Hoy es martes, mañana será miércoles.	Today is Tuesday, tomorrow will be Wednesday.
Lazos de familia	Family Ties
	Surely you remember that the goal of this section, which appeared for the first time in Part 2, Lesson 14, is to enrich our vocabulary. The first term on the list indicates the subject matter or “parent”, having the rest of terms and concepts as “descendants”, “offshoots” and “relatives”.
Amistad	Friendship

Yo no hablo alemán y mi hermana tampoco.	I don't speak German and neither does my sister.
Yo hablo ruso y mi hermana también.	I speak Russian and my sister too.
El libro es un gran éxito.	The book is a big success
Los niños comerán temprano.	The children will eat early.
Ejercicio 2	Exercise 2
No hoy, mañana	Not today, tomorrow
	Please put the verb of the following sentences in the synthetic future tense. The underlined words are the verbs you have to change. For example: Estudio francés Estudiaré francés
Manuel es médico
Manuel será médico
Te llamo a la oficina.

Te llamaré a la oficina.
Caminamos por el parque.
Caminaremos por el parque
Viven todos en la misma casa.
Vivirán todos en la misma casa.
Me levanto temprano.
Me levantaré temprano.

Lección número 2	Lesson 2
¿Qué haremos?	What will we do?
Roberto y Luisa nos invitaron a pasar el fin de semana en su casa de la playa.	Roberto and Luisa invited us to spend the weekend at their house on the beach.
De más está decir que me gusta la idea, pero ¿no íbamos a pintar la cocina?	Needless to say that I like the idea but, weren't we going to paint the kitchen?
Tienes razón. Casi me olvidaba.	You are right. I almost forgot.
¿Compraste la pintura para la cocina?	Did you buy the paint for the kitchen?
Seguro. La compré la semana pasada, como te dije.	Sure. I bought it last week, as I told you.
¿Tenemos todas las herramientas?	Do we have all the tools?
Sí, todo está listo.	Yes, everything is ready.
¿Qué haremos? ¿Iremos a la playa o nos quedaremos en casa trabajando?	What will we do? Shall we go to the beach or shall we stay at home working?
No sé, ¿qué dices tú?	I don't know, what do you say?
Podemos ir a la playa este fin de semana y pintar la cocina la semana que viene.	We can go to the beach this weekend and paint the kitchen next week.
Llamaré a Roberto y le diré que aceptamos la invitación.	I'll call Roberto and tell him that we accept the invitation.
¡Excelente! Ya está decidido.	Excellent! It is already decided.
Vocabulario	Vocabulary

es un decir	it is [just] a saying, an expression

decir por decir	just to say something, "for the fun of it"
El futuro “sintético” [continuación]	The “synthetic” future tense [continued]
	In Lesson 1 you guessed right! There are indeed some exceptions to the building rules. Fortunately there are not so many... however they apply to frequently used verbs.
	As a matter of fact, the endings will not change. The changes will apply to the basic form of the verb, what we usually call “ la raíz ” (the root).
	One of them is decir :
	Its form in the synthetic future will not be (as you would expect) “ deciré ” and so on but:
yo diré	I will say
tú dirás	You will say
él/ella dirá	He/ She will say
nosotros / nosotras diremos	We will say
vosotros / vosotras diréis	You will say
ustedes / ellos / ellas dirán	You / They will say
	Other verbs with similar changes in the root are: hacer → haré, harás, hará... [not “ haceré ”] haber → habrá [future of hay, hubo, había...] poder → podré, podrás, podrá... saber → sabré, sabrás, sabrá...
Veamos unos ejemplos	Let us see some examples
Cecilia piensa mucho en qué dirá la gente.	Cecilia thinks a lot in what people will say.
	Remember what we learned in Part 2, Lesson 11? The noun gente has a singular form but actually it has a plural meaning = many persons. Its gender is feminine: la gente
¿ Podrás ayudarme mañana?	Will you be able to help me tomorrow?
Si estudias sabrás hablar en buen español.	If you study, you will know how to speak good Spanish.
Todavía no sé qué haré .	I don't know yet what will I do.
Llamaré al servicio de informaciones y ellos me dirán qué hacer.	I will call the information service and they will tell me what to do.
Habrá muchos turistas en la playa este fin de semana.	There will be many tourists at the beach this weekend.

combustible	combustible, fuel
La cosa está que arde [coloquial]	Things are getting hot / The situation is getting very serious [colloquial]
siempre / nunca	siempre / nunca
	The word siempre (always) will be used in affirmative statements, while nunca (never) will only appear in negative statements. Please note that nunca may appear in two different constructions: 1) [Nunca + VERB] 2) [No + VERB + nunca]
	However, the combinations [nunca no]* and [no nunca]* are NOT ACCEPTED in the language (unless the two words are separated by a comma). Let us take a look at some examples to learn the use of siempre and nunca .
Siempre voy al cine con mi hermana.	I always go to the movies with my sister.
Nunca voy al cine con mi hermana	I never go to the movies with my sister.
No voy nunca al cine con mi hermana.	I never go to the movies with my sister.
	As previously indicated, we should NEVER say: * Nunca no voy * No nunca voy But we could say: No, nunca voy [the two words separated by a comma]
Juan siempre se levanta a las 8.	Juan always gets up at 8.
Juan nunca se levanta a las 8.	Juan never gets up at 8.
Juan no se levanta nunca a las 8.	Juan never gets up at 8.

Lección número 3	Lesson 3
Una boda original	An original wedding
¿Recibiste la invitación a la boda de Carmen y Rudy?	Did you get the invitation to Carmen's and Rudy's wedding?
Sí, la recibí. No solo eso, Carmen me eligió para ser su dama de honor.	Yes, I got it. Not only that, Carmen chose me to be her bridesmaid.
¡Qué coincidencia! El novio me eligió para ser su padrino.	What a coincidence! The groom chose me to be his best man.
Yo estoy muy contenta, pero tengo un problema...	I am very happy, but I have a problem...
Me parece que yo tengo el mismo problema.	I think I have the same problem.
Bueno, la boda se celebrará en la playa, justo a orillas del mar, sobre la arena.	Well, the wedding will be celebrated on the beach, right by the sea, on the sand.
Y no sabes qué ponerte... Yo tampoco.	And you don't know what to wear... Me neither.
Claro, no podré ponerme un vestido largo, no me pondré zapatos de tacones altos...	Sure, I will not be able to wear a long dress, I will not put on high heeled shoes...
Mira, les preguntaremos a la novia y al novio qué se pondrán ellos.	Look, we will ask the bride and the groom what they will wear.
Me imagino que no se casarán en trajes de baño.	I imagine they will not marry in swimsuits.
¡Esa sería una boda muy original!	That would be a very original wedding!
Es posible, a ellos no les importa qué dirá la gente.	It's possible, they don't care what people will say.

matrimonio	marriage
novia	bride novio	groom
dama de honor	bridesmaid
padrino	godfather, best man [in a wedding]
madrina	godmother
coincidencia	coincidence
elegir	to choose
	Please note: elegir is not a regular verb. Its form in the past tense will be: elegí elegiste elegió [NOT elegió*] elegimos elegisteis eligieron [NOT elegieron*]

problema	problem
	Please note: although ending with the vowel a , the gender of the noun problema is masculine: el problema, un problema, los problemas
a orillas del mar	by the sea, at the seaside
arena	sand
tacones altos	high heels
zapatos de tacones altos	high heeled shoes
casarse	to marry
imaginarse	to imagine
traje de baño	swimsuit, bathing suit
	Please note: the names of clothing items may vary from country to country. For example, a swimsuit is known as traje de baño, bañador, malla and also vestido de baño in different parts of the Spanish speaking world.
importarle [a alguien]	to care, to mind
El futuro “sintético” [continuación]	The “synthetic” future tense [continued]
	In the previous lesson we learned the first group of exceptions to the building rules of the “synthetic” future tense. In this lesson we will learn the second (and LAST!!!) group.
	In this group, a curious thing happens. The last vowel of the verb [that is, the e or the i in the last syllable: -er or -ir] will be replaced by the consonant d .
	One of the verbs in this group is poner : Its form in the synthetic future will not be (as you would expect) “ poneré ” and so on, but:
yo pondré	I will put
tú pondrás	You will put él/ella pondrá	He/ She will put nosotros / nosotras pondremos	We will put vosotros / vosotras pondréis	You will put ustedes / ellos / ellas pondrán	You / They will put
	Other verbs with the same peculiarity are: tener → tendré, tendrás, tendrá... [not “ teneré ”] salir → saldré, saldrás, saldrá... venir → vendré, vendrás, vendrá...
	Note: Actually there are a few more but they are not used very frequently.
Veamos unos ejemplos	Let us see some examples
Los niños vendrán más tarde.	The children will come later.
El tren saldrá a las 7 y 28.	The train will leave at 7:28.
Tendrás que devolver el dinero.	You will have to refund the money.

ondas sonoras	sound waves
ultrasonido	ultrasound
estar fuera de onda [coloquial]	To be out of touch, outdated, out of step. [colloquial]
alguno / ninguno – alguna / ninguna	alguno / ninguno – alguna / ninguna
	The words alguno / alguna (some, any) will be used in affirmative statements, while ninguno / ninguna (none, not even one) will only appear in negative statements. Please note that alguno and ninguno will lose the final o when preceding a noun in the masculine gender. They will become algún and ningún .
	Additional rule: alguno / alguna have the plural forms algunos / algunas but the negative ninguno / ninguna may appear only in the singular.
	Let us take a look at some examples to learn the use of these parts of speech belonging to the indefinite pronouns category.
¿Tienes algunos globos?	Do you have some balloons?
Sí, tengo algunos .	Yes, I have some.
No, no tengo ningún globo.	No, I have not even one balloon.
No, no tengo ninguno .	No, I have not even one.
